

ODA

In The Press

Jason Null Joins One Day Alive for 2024 Parental Advisory Tour

One Day Alive Debuts
New Single, On Tour May 2024

One Day Alive's Newest Release in 2023: Nowhere

One Day Alive

Just off their exhilarating Parental Advisory Tour, where they joined forces with Jason Null of Saving Abel, One Day Alive has proven to be a powerhouse in the new age rock scene. This Cincinnati-based band, known for their thick guitar riffs, melodically driven vocals, and anthemic sound, has captured audiences across the U.S., sharing stages with the likes of Fuel, Hinder, Smile Empty Soul, Days of the New, Red Jumpsuit Apparatus, Bobaflex, Taproot, and Saliva.

One Day Alive's music is a raw expression of both personal turmoil and triumph, delivering a blend of angst and honesty that resonates deeply with their fans. Their debut single, "Just Tonight," released in the summer of 2021, garnered 500,000 streams within the first 30 days, setting the stage for their continued success. Their follow-up single, "Bringing on the Pain," released in November 2022, climbed to #13 on the SMR charts and added another half-million streams on Spotify.

Currently, One Day Alive is putting the finishing touches on their highly anticipated debut full-length album, co-produced by Jason Null, who has also taken a break from his band, Saving Abel, to play with ODA. This collaboration is expected to bring a fresh dynamic to their already captivating sound.

